2. Applying Turquoise and Rainbow Shades

Once the hair is lightened, the turquoise color is applied, often as the main base or blended with other shades. The rainbow colors come next, strategically placed to create smooth transitions between hues. Techniques like balayage or hand-painting can be used to achieve this multi-dimensional e?ect.

3. Adding Faux Glitter E?ects

Instead of traditional glitter, hair glosses with shimmer or iridescent pigments are applied to give the hair a sparkling ?nish. Some stylists use special color-depositing conditioners or sprays that add a glitter-like e?ect without the ?akes, ensuring the hair remains soft and shiny.

4. Finishing with Silver Tones

The ?nal layer involves adding silver or metallic pigments to certain sections or as a full overlay. This step ties the entire look together, providing depth and a luminous sheen that enhances the turquoise and rainbow colors beneath.
